Mark Jelinske of Cator, Ruma & Associates Appointed CAHED Code Advocate

Lakewood, Colorado – November 29, 2011 – The Colorado Association of Healthcare Engineers and Directors (CAHED) recently appointed Mark Jelinske, Senior Associate at Cator, Ruma & Associates to act as their Code Advocate at a Code Advocacy Meeting taking place in Chicago on December 10, 2011.

The conference will be attended by Code Advocates from the American Society for Healthcare Engineering (ASHE) nationwide. The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss national trends in code enforcement and ways in which ASHE can lobby to effect reasonable regulation.

"This is an exciting opportunity to bring to light some of the most important issues affecting Colorado healthcare facilities right now," stated Jelinske. "The goal is to understand how codes are applied nationally, and work toward consistency and reason in the regulation process, which will benefit the community as a whole."

Jelinske is no stranger to mechanical code issues and their relevance to healthcare facilities. In June of 2011, Jelinske presented two motions at National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) Technical Meetings held in Boston, Massachusetts, to reject the addition of HVAC and Plumbing to the scope of NFPA 99. These motions were passed, avoiding a further regulatory layer to healthcare facility design, construction, and operation. Over the course of his 27-year career, Jelinske has conducted workshops at various CAHED and ASHRAE Technical Conferences.
